

Invitation to a presentation by Janet Millington on

Permaculture Solutions to Climate Change & Peak Oil

How can we get permanency in our culture when so much of our natural environment is changing and our natural resources are depleting?

For more than 30 years, permaculture has been providing solutions to the very problems it pre-empted back then.

Janet Millington, permaculture practitioner, author and teacher, led the first transition initiative in Australia to an energy descent future for the Sunshine Coast.

Learn from Janet how permaculture can help you transition your home, family and community from oil dependency to local resilience in response to climate change and peak oil.

Meet Janet & join your local Permaculture group

When: Tues 17 November 2009. doors open 6pm for supper, 7pm-9pm.

Where: Leichhardt Town Hall, cnr Norton and Marion St.

Cost: Free for Permaculture Sydney South members, otherwise $10.

RSVP: Thursday 12 November 2009 via email to Vicki vicki.f@hotmail.com

Membership: Phone Peter 0412679215 or email Vicki.

Janet is running a "Facilitating Transition" workshop on 14th & 15th Nov, for people who want to start the transition to an energy descent future in their community. Contact Vicki for enquiries & bookings.

